

Test your knowledge: Work with strings

Score: 100% (10/10)

1. Which of the following statements is true? (10 points)

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string.

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string literal.

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string object.

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string variable.

2. Which of the following statements is true? (10 points)

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string literal.

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string object.

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string variable.

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string method.

3. Which of the following statements is true? (10 points)

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string literal.

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string object.

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string variable.

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string method.

4. Which of the following statements is true? (10 points)

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string literal.

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string object.

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string variable.

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string method.

5. Which of the following statements is true? (10 points)

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string literal.

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string object.

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string variable.

☐ The string "a" is a valid Python string, but it is not a valid Python string method.